We can make our minds so
Like still water
That beings gather around us
That they may see
It may be, their own images
And so live for a moment
With a clearer
Perhaps even a fiercer life
Because of our quiet

Introduction

Turning Point™ Institute (TPI) is delighted to offer a four-year, part-time MSc in Integrative Counselling and Psychotherapy, validated and awarded by University College Cork, which commences in September each year.

The MSc in Integrative Counselling and Psychotherapy is the flagship programme at Turning Point™ Institute. It is distinct in its clinical and research teaching, its student support and the attention given to each individual student. The programme, embedded within a humanistic framework, includes experiential training, clinical practice, supervision, theoretical teaching and research skills. The exceptional care and attention to detail offered by Turning Point™ Institute, allows for an outstanding training programme.

Turning Point™ MSc graduates are highly skilled, industry recognised and respected throughout the profession. During their training they benefit from both the legacy of Turning Point™ Institute and a forward-facing approach that recognises and understands the needs of a modern society. This ensures that those graduating are prepared both personally and professionally to work therapeutically in clinical practice and also as research-practitioners.

About the Course

The MSc in Integrative Counselling and Psychotherapy comprises of five interweaving component parts:

Integrative Approach

Turning Point™ Institute (TPI) training recognises the uniqueness of the individual. We do not believe that any one, single approach to psychotherapy is the only way. Our integrative approach to psychotherapy is embedded within a humanistic framework, informed by person-centred therapy, psychoanalysis, the transpersonal approach of psychosynthesis and the developmental insights of psychodynamic theories. During your training, you will be taught how to integrate theories and skills from several different therapeutic modalities to formulate a coherent and flexible framework of your own, to best serve your client's individual needs.

Skills Development

At TPI, you will develop the skills competencies that will allow you become a qualified psychotherapist. You will learn how to improve your interpersonal, communication and listening skills, develop therapeutic relationships based on empathy, trust and respect and to use reflexive techniques to help clients through their challenges.

Education, growth
and transformation.

Self-Reflection

Self-reflection is an essential component of psychotherapy and the best therapists are always those that have done their own emotional work. TPI creates a safe environment where you can personally reflect on past experiences to achieve a deeper understanding of self. This is an integral part of your journey and development to become a qualified psychotherapist. You will be encouraged to keep a personal journal of your experiences throughout the training.

Clinical Practice

Clinical placement commences in year 3 and continues until the end of year 4. TPI will fully support you to find a clinical placement, meeting best practice requirements. TPI will also assign you an accredited clinical supervisor, trained in integrative psychotherapy, who works to the governing organisations Code of Ethics.

Research

As part of your training, you will learn about the value of research, understand its real-life applications and be supported to develop research skills for effectiveness in practice. You will develop an understanding of different approaches to psychotherapy research, including how research contributes to the development of knowledge and critical analysis on a subject related to Psychotherapy. You will be appointed with an academic dissertation supervisor in year 4 who will guide and support you with your dissertation submission.

Student Support

You will be assigned an experienced skills tutor to guide you through each aspect of the course, with ongoing feedback provided during each academic year. Study groups and class cohesiveness form an important resource for students on their journey through the programme, in both academic research and clinical learnings.

Equality, Diversity and Inclusion

We are a welcoming and inclusive training centre, with accessible facilities. We encourage applicants from a range of backgrounds including, but not exclusively, race, religion, ethnicity, gender, sexual orientation, disability, and neurodivergence, allowing for a creative, vibrant learning environment. We are non-discriminating and care for all of our students equally.

Student Testimonials

For anyone interested in psychotherapy, the Masters in Integrative Psychotherapy at Turning Point™ is the best thing that will ever happen to you. I found the experience to be truly transformative, both personally and professionally. As someone who had no previous experience in the field, the programme provided me with a comprehensive understanding of the theoretical and practical aspects of psychotherapy, which I have been able to apply in my work with clients.

Emma Comerford

I cannot recommend this course enough, within the safe space offered on this programme I explored my perceptions, challenged myself and began a lifelong learning journey.

Eimear Deighton

One of the most profound privileges I now recognise is the ability to sit with clients, equipped with the knowledge, insights, and depth of understanding gained through my training. The rigorous preparation provided by this course gives you a solid foundation to hold space for others.

Peter J Mulvihill

Studying at Turning Point™ (2019-2023) was truly life-changing for me as I learned to live from the inside out. I stepped into a world where incredible tutors (all therapists) offered complete and unconditional acceptance and empathy.

Mairéad Hurley
